

DAY OF Nonviolent Communication
OCTOBER 6

In memory of Marshall B. Rosenberg (*06.10.1934, †07.02.2015) and in gratitude for his development of Nonviolent Communication (NVC), the 6th of October

birthday of Marshall B. Rosenberg has been declared a national memorial day

with activities in the spirit of Nonviolent Communication within the German speaking countries.

With its first celebration in 2016 we also celebrated „30 years of NVC in German speaking countries“.

In creating this memorial day of activities we wish

- to contribute to the growth of Nonviolent Communication and thereby to further peace in our society
- to strengthen our community and to make it more visible
- to invite anybody who feels inspired to join in and to collaborate with us

The day is already listed under „Day of Nonviolent Communication“ in the German part of Wikipedia.

We invite all non-profit organisations and associations, who wish to share and support NVC, to sign the declaration of this National Memorial Day, as provided below.

You will be listed as a supporting body on www.day-of-nvc.org.

Each year on or before October 6 we inform the public about the NVC Day by way of press releases and this also includes naming all supporting organisations and associations.

Please tell us about any of your planned activities for the Day-of-NVC in your country, so we can share it and link it on the website for Day-of-NVC www.tag-der-gfk.org.

Our project group works on honorary basis only and we came together from different organisations. We deeply wish to encourage all interested parties to show themselves with NVC in the public sphere and to contribute and carry the light of inspiration further. We meet in monthly video calls and, as best as we can, try to make a meaningful use of all financial and other aid granted.

If you have any questions, want to receive further information or want to get involved in any other way, beyond signing up as a supporting organisation or association, feel very welcome to contact us by email.

With the warmest regards,

Team Day-of-NVC
